

Henry G. Piffard *

Founder

Born: 1842

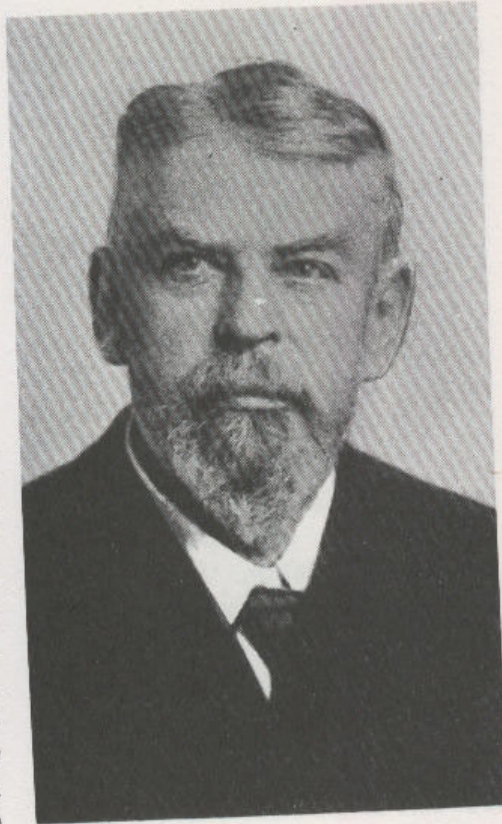

Graduated: M.D., College of Physicians and Surgeons, 1864

Training: Postgraduate work under Dr. Tilbury Fox at University College Hospital, and also in Paris and Vienna

Teaching Appointments: New York University, Professor of Dermatology, 1874, first to give postgraduate instruction in dermatology in America, 1875; New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital, 1882

Professional Societies: New York Dermatological Society, Founder; American Dermatological Association, Founder

Author: translated Hardy's The Dartrous Diathesis or Eczema and Allied Affections, 1868; Elementary Treatise on Diseases of the Skin, 1876, the second American textbook on dermatology; Treatise on Materia Medica and Therapeutics of the Skin, 1881, first American textbook on dermatotherapy

According to Andrew R. Robinson, Henry Piffard described the tubercules in 1892, four years before Darier. He was also a pioneer in physiotherapy of the skin.

*Deceased, 1910